

LEGACY OF HATE

unmitigated evil

street date: 06 june 2008

Sometimes it all comes back!

Thinking of the late 90s (Death) Metal Underground, you can't avoid coming across the name LEGACY OF HATE sooner or later. With their 1999 debut "Death Trip", they not only managed to attract attention to die-hard BOLT THROWER fans, but were also reckoned as an ambitious example of a flourishing metal subculture and a part of a committed scene community in the Alps.

Founded in 1997 in Linz, LEGACY OF HATE is one of the most restless and consistent Underground acts in Austria, being able to cause quite a stir in the Death Metal sector with their previous 3 albums, that were all released by their own.

With massive promotion, all done on the part of the band, there was no way around the quintet for years. Represented on a couple of compilations and in interviews of magazines such as Rock Hard, Eternity and Legacy, the guys strengthened their presence with outstanding reviews for their first releases.

After their 2003 release "Seeds Of A Future Bizarre", the guys from Linz could hardly be noticed in public, but the embers never went out, even the band's work was obstructed at times due to some line-up problems, especially concerning the vocalist's part.

Now, in 2008 and after a few delays, the band's fourth longplayer "Unmitigated Evil" is finally raring to go. Concerning the musical structure, the band remains true to itself and most notably in the melodic riffing one can quickly see who's behind all that. The album was mastered by Peter "Pluto" Neuber at the Berlin MegaWimpSound (Thirdmoon, War From A Harlots Mouth, Avulsed) - a guarantor for razor sharp and transparent productions.
